About the artwork

BERYTUS .. A Glorified City

The photography series depicts Beirut as a city that has been war torn and abused, but never broken. Violated across the centuries, destroyed and reconstructed time and time again, Beirut continues to resist and remains standing. Attar's curation encompasses Beirut (Berytus) as a woman, communicating a series of messages through images of independence, deprivation, immigration, and what's left to interpretation.
"The choice to embody the powerful narrative behind Berytus as a woman, torn at the seams of her dress, speaks to the immense struggle yet perseverance of the Lebanese spirit. Berytus always struggles to keep her head high but does so despite all odds"
